San Diego North Chamber of Commerce is set to host its 2nd Annual Women's Week

San Diego Women's Week is proud to announce a partnership with the City of Escondido and California Center for the Arts. San Diego Women's Week 2011 will be hosted at the California Center for the Arts in the Concert Hall and in the Conference Center, March 30, 2011 through April 2, 2011.

"The San Diego North Chamber of Commerce is honored to partner with The City of Escondido for the second annual San Diego Women's Week," said SDNCC President and CEO, Debra Rosen. "With their support, this event will be hosted in one of the most recognizable and respected venues in North San Diego County. "

"We value our on-going relationship with the San Diego North Chamber of Commerce and their San Diego Women's Week aligns perfectly with the type of events that we strive to host at the California Center for the Arts." said Escondido Mayor Lori Holt Pfeiler. The Center is a multi-discipline arts complex situated on a lush, 12-acre campus. At the one-of-a-kind venue you'll find two theaters, a 9,000 square foot Conference Center, art and education studios and a museum featuring regional art, as well as internationally known artists and traveling exhibitions.

San Diego Women's Week will provide inspirational speakers, forward-looking forums, and unique opportunities for the region's women. Along with the City of Escondido, other partners and California Center for the Arts, San Diego North Chamber of Commerce aims to empower, inspire and connect women through their 2nd Annual Women's Week.
